hi-impact take the privacy of your personal information very seriously and are committed to ensuring that we safeguard your personal information. In order to deliver our services to you, from time to time we need to collect personal information. The information we collect from you, along with the content that you use on our services and the data on how you use our websites, help us to provide a range of services that meet your needs. By using our services, you agree to the use of the data that we collect in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

The purpose of this Privacy Policy is to explain whose personal information we may collect and hold, what types of information we collect and how that information is used. When you share your information with us, you have the right to expect that this information is treated in a secure and confidential manner. This means that:

- We take full responsibility for all information you provide to us
- We will protect your personal information
- We will not sell your information to a third party

Personal data is:

“Any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person (‘data subject’); an identifiable natural person is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of that natural person”.

Personal Information

Most personal information processed by hi-impact is provided to us directly by you when you contact or purchase one of our services or products. Data is collected through our websites, social media, telephone enquiries, service and product purchases, becoming a partner, technical support enquiries and booking tickets for one of our events. We may retain a copy of our correspondence on our records, including any personal information contained therein, to be retained for as long as it is relevant.

This information may include, but is not limited to, your name, address, telephone number, email address, date of birth and financial information, along with other relevant and necessary information in order to deliver the service. If you're applying for a job we will need to collect detailed personal information which will be held for as long as it is relevant.

We automatically collect data via our websites. This data is non-personal identifiable information to help us understand how our websites are being used. Further information with regards to this can be found within the cookies section below.

hi-impact does not collect any special category data from clients or individuals not employed by the business.

How will we use the information about you?

We collect information about you to process your order, manage your account and, if you agree, to email you about other products and services we think may be of interest to you. If you agree, we shall pass on your personal information internally to our other departments so that they may offer you relevant products and services. hi-impact will not share your information for marketing purposes with any other companies.

hi-impact has a number of service partnerships in place. These services may access your data as a functionality of the product. The details of the security and privacy measures these individual companies have in place are provided below. As part of the setup of these services, hi-impact may be required to share your data with third party suppliers, details of the data shared are provided below.

Cookies

What are cookies?

Cookies are small data files that are placed on your computer or mobile device when you visit a website. Cookies are widely used by online service providers to help build a profile of users. Some of this data will be aggregated or statistical, which means that we will not be able to identify you individually.

You can set your browser not to accept cookies however, some of our website features may not function as a result. If you do not want to accept cookies, you can change your browser settings so that cookies are not accepted. If you do this, please be aware that you may lose some of the functionality of this website. For further information about cookies and how to disable them please go to the Information Commissioner's webpage on cookies:

<https://ico.org.uk/for-the-public/online/cookies/>.

Types of cookies

The cookies we place on your device fall into the following categories:

- Session cookies—these allow our website to link your actions during a particular browser session. These expire each time you close your browser and do not remain on your device afterwards
- Persistent cookies—these are stored on your device in between browser sessions. These allow your preferences or actions across our website to be remembered. These will remain on your device until they expire, or you delete them from your cache
- Strictly necessary cookies—these cookies are essential for you to be able to navigate our website and use its features. Without these cookies, the services you have asked for could not be provided
- Performance cookies—these cookies collect information about how you use our website, eg which pages you go to most often. These cookies do not collect personally identifiable information about you. All information collected by these cookies is aggregated and anonymous, and is only used to improve how our website works
- Functionality cookies—these cookies allow our website to remember the choices you make (such as your user name, language, last action and search preferences) and provide enhanced, more personal features. The information collected by these cookies is anonymous and cannot track your browsing activity on other websites
- Targeting cookies—also known as advertising cookies, these cookies are used to deliver adverts more relevant to you and your interests. They are also used to limit the number of times you see an advertisement on our website and help measure the effectiveness of the advertising campaign. They are usually placed by advertising networks with the website operator’s permission. They remember that you have visited a website and this information is shared with other organisations such as advertisers
